Life as a freelancer comes with many freedoms but also a significant amount of responsibility. You're in charge of setting your own hours, negotiating your own contracts, making sure you get paid, managing your expenses and taxes, and everything else your business needs to run. As a freelancer, you can't delegate. You can, however, invest in technology to help you ease the burden. These ten apps can all be a huge help for your freelance business, and they're all on sale now.

Todoledo Plus Online Task Manager

Todoledo syncs across all of your devices so you can record and track tasks immediately. The app lets you set customizable alarms for certain tasks, give yourself email or text reminders, and even set location-based and recurring task alarms. It also integrates with your email, calendar, and other productivity tools to ensure you're always on top of your work.
