15 Digital Tools and Apps to Jumpstart 2018

Created by the well-known journal, calendar and notebook company Moleskine, Timepage is the company's first digital tool. Combining events, maps, contacts and weather, Timepage is a subscription calendar service geared toward busy professionals and entrepreneurs who tend to overestimate how much time they need. The calendar app has specially created a "heat map" feature, which shows users how busy and full their days are so they can manage their time and divvy up their work throughout the week.

Available for iOS, $1.99 per month
