8 Ways to Get Health Insurance When You're Self-Employed

Opinions expressed by Entrepreneur contributors are their own.

You're reading Entrepreneur United States, an international franchise of Entrepreneur Media.

There's a lot to love about being self-employed, including flexible hours and the ability to work from anywhere. But a major downside is having to foot your entire health insurance bill. However, with a surge in self-employment in recent years — 57 million Americans said they did some form of freelance work in 2019 — it's becoming easier to find health coverage as a solo worker.

Here are eight options to find affordable health insurance when you work for yourself.

https://www.entrepreneur.com/article/396584