

Andy Warhol: Virtual Curator's Tour

With museums across the world having to close their doors, Tate Modern in London have bought their groundbreaking Andy Warhol exhibition to you to see from the comfort of your sofa!

This major retrospective is the first Warhol exhibition at Tate Modern for almost 20 years. As well as his iconic pop images of Marilyn Monroe, Coca-Cola and Campbell's soup cans, it includes works never seen before in the UK. Twenty-five works from his Ladies and Gentlemen series—portraits of black and Latinx drag queens and trans women—are shown for the first time in 30 years.

You can now join curators Gregor Muir and Fiontán Moran as they discuss Warhol through the lens of the immigrant story, his LGBTQI identity and concerns with death and religion.

Popularly radical and radically popular, Warhol was an artist who reimagined what art could be in an age of immense social, political and technological change.

On the Tate website. Through 6 September 2020.
