Best Wacom deals for Easter

We've found the best Easter deals out there on Cintiq and Cintiq Pros from Wacom – and discovered which deals are just old models being flogged cheap on Amazon.

Easter is not usually known as a big tech sales season, but you can find cheap deals out there on creative tech to enjoy if you look hard enough. That said, still make sure you're not being ripped off by paying big prices for old models.

Here we're keeping you from that fate by concentrating on current deals on some of the best drawing tech out there on the market for creatives – Wacom graphics tablets like the Cintiq Pro 24, along with interesting alternatives from lesser known brands.

Best Wacom deals for the Cintiq Pro

Art shown by Sam Gilbey, as made for his review for us of the Cintiq Pro 24

UK brand Park Cameras are offering £150 off the top-of-the-range Wacom Cintiq Pro 24 with Touch Display at £2,049.00. The discount is on until April 22nd, so make sure you grab one while you enjoy your Easter 2019 break. Note that there aren't any current deals on the standard version without Touch, making this particular discount even more eye-catching – and you even get a free Wacom Desk Arm when buying the Pro 24 or Pro 32, saving you £350.00. Find a link to the 32″ model here, but note that despite its Easter discount this isn't the cheapest price on the market for the Cintiq Pro 32.

There's also £150 off the Wacom Cintiq Pro 16 at Park Cameras, meaning a £1,049.00 price tag which even Amazon isn't matching. Deadline again for this deal is April 22nd; below is a pic of the Cintiq Pro 16 with art by Superfiction.

Best Wacom Cintiq deals for Easter

The non-‘Pro’ Wacom Cintiq 16 meanwhile is priced at £489.00 for the Park Camera Easter sale, saving you 40 quid.

You can also currently pick up the latest Cintiq 13 for £100 less at £579. Note that at first glance on Amazon you might think you can get it for cheaper on Marketplace – but that’s an older version without full HD display. This Easter price for the latest Cintiq 13 even beats the current pricing on Wacom’s official store.

If these prices don’t fit your budget but you’re looking for a Wacom alternative, then know you can get a 30% discount on Huion gloves when buying in conjunction with various Cintiqesque tablets from the brand on Amazon.

One of the higher end Huion models included in the Amazon offer is the Kamvas PRO13 (above) priced for 30 quid less at £299, a Cintiq-like model we haven’t tried but it seems to be worth a try according to some reviews you can find out there. Get the deal here.

https://www.digitalartsonline.co.uk/news/creative-hardware/best-wacom-deals-easter-2019/