

China bans iPhone use for government work

China's government has banned officials at central government agencies from bringing foreign-branded phones, including the iPhone, into offices or using them for government work, reports The Wall Street Journal. Citing unnamed sources, the article says China seeks to "cut the country's reliance on foreign technology" and beef up cybersecurity, as well as keep sensitive data from leaking to foreign governments.

<https://www.theverge.com/2023/9/6/23861353/china-bans-iphones-foreign-smartphones-government-officials-us-tiktok-restrictions>