Designers Love Solutions—Let’s Create One for Our Diversity Problem

Over the course of my career, I’ve noticed most design organizations—from multinational corporations to startup agencies—have a shared problem: Their teams don’t reflect the world we live in. Diversity in the design community is minimal at best.

Don’t miss The Business of Marketing podcast featuring leading c-suite executives sharing insights on the importance of leveraging the intersectionality of marketing, finance, technology, HR and the boardroom to drive business growth. Tune in.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/creativity/designer-diversity-problem/