Event Today: Attack Surface Management Summit

As security teams look to foundational strategies to protect corporate assets, the reduction of attack surface throughout the organization takes center stage.

Join us today for SecurityWeek's 2023 Attack Surface Management Summit from 11AM-4PM ET as we bring together expert defenders to share best practices around reducing attack surfaces in modern computing.

This fully immersive virtual event will pick apart the various components of the attack surface management strategy, the push to mandate continuous asset visibility and inventory tools, and the use of red-teaming, bug bounties and pen-tests in modern security programs.
