Facebook Introduced 2 User Privacy Protection Tools for Developers of Apps, Websites

Facebook Friday introduced two new tools aimed at helping developers respond to the privacy concerns of their applications' users and comply with the European Union's General Data Protection Regulation, which went into effect Friday. The social network introduced a callback URL that can be used when users remove apps and websites from Facebook's apps and… https://www.adweek.com/digital/facebook-introduced-2-user-privacy-protection-tools-for-developers-of-apps-websites/
