Final call to enter the 2019 Search Engine Land Awards

Time is running out to wrap up your submissions for the 5th annual Search Engine Land Awards! That's right – the next entry deadline is just days away, Friday, April 26th at 11:59PM PST.

This is your chance to be recognized among the most successful consultants, agencies and in-house search marketing teams in the world.

This year's competition features over 15 categories, including opportunities to be recognized not just for your team's outstanding SEO and SEM campaigns, but for the rockstar individuals on your team, too.

In-house SEO & SEM teams also have the chance to earn some hardware and boost their credibility with the CMO and other executives. As previous year's winner UPMC said, "Being recognized as a Search Engine Land Award winner has helped elevate the paid search channel within the department."

Agencies of all sizes will be battling it out for top honors across the campaign categories, in addition to proving they've produced killer results for their clients to earn a coveted nomination in the Agency of the Year award groups.

What can be better than that?

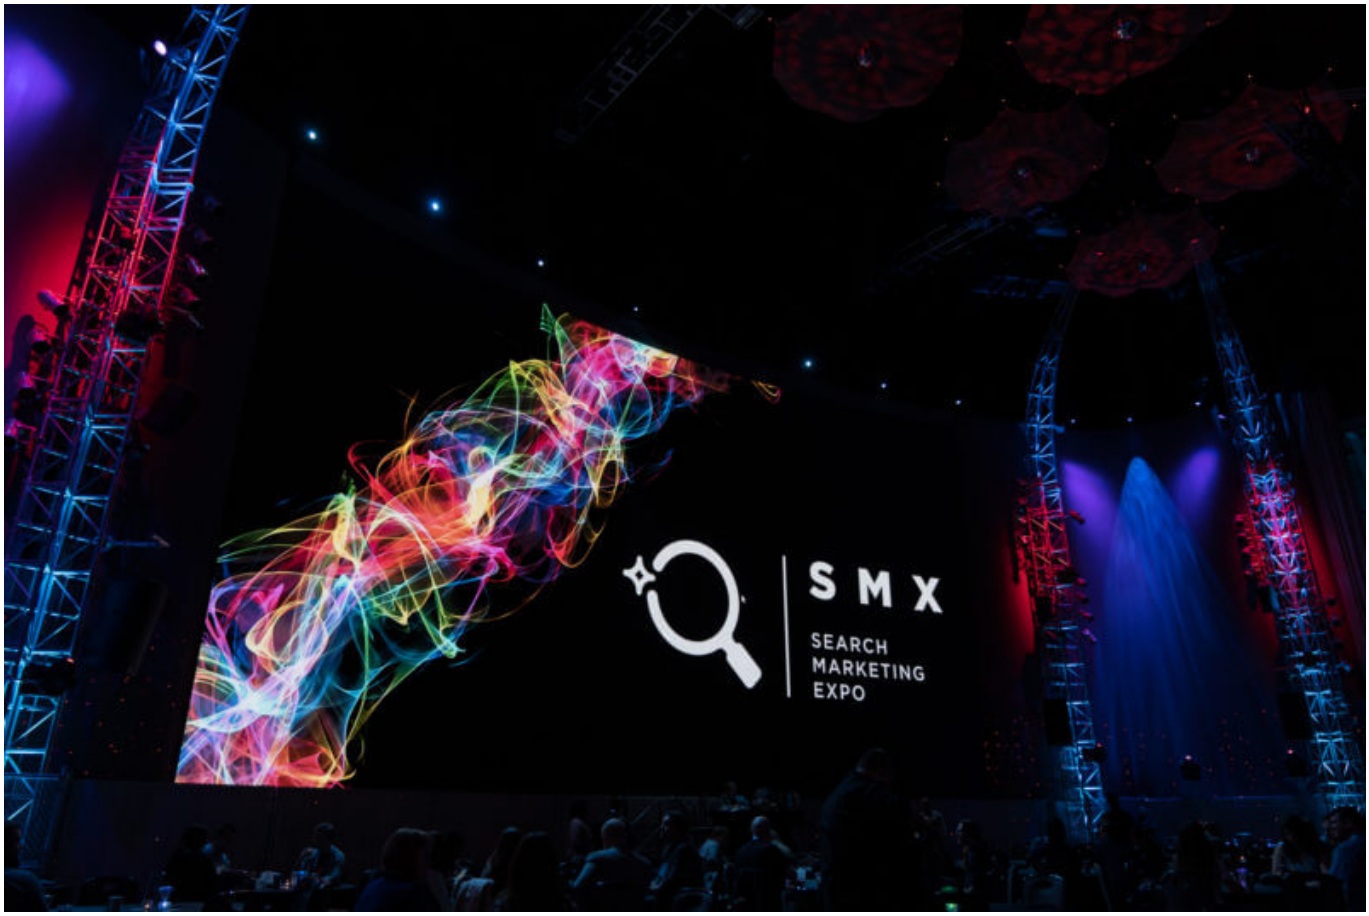

The Search Engine Land Awards celebration & afterparty

One of the most exciting things about this year's awards program is the move to hold the ceremony and celebration during our annual SMX Advanced conference.

On June 4th, we'll be taking over Seattle's Museum of Pop Culture (MoPOP) for one epic evening to celebrate the shortlisted finalists and announce the winners, along with some special surprises for the search community members in attendance.

Our guests will have access to the featured exhibits at the museum throughout the night – which will include the truly amazing Prince and Nirvana exhibits. As always, the cocktails will be flowing, the food will be mouth-watering, and there will be entertainment for all to enjoy, it's THE search party of the year!

It's all made possible by the continued support of the Search Engine Land Awards by our sponsor, Bing!

The Search Engine Land Awards celebration & afterparty on June 4th at MoPOP is included with the purchase of an SMX Advanced All Access ticket so you're invited to join the community celebration whether you enter the awards competition or not.

All entrants in the awards program do receive an exclusive discount on SMX Advanced All Access passes, though – so that's one more incentive to enter the competition!

And wouldn't it be extra special to get the VIP treatment and be named a finalist or winner in front of 600+ search community rockstars?

Don't miss out – start an application now and make sure you complete your submission by Friday, April 26, 2019 at 11:59PM PST.

Still need more time?

Entries will be accepted through the FINAL submission deadline of Friday, April 29th, but will incur an additional ($100) late fee per entry. No additional extensions will be granted.
