

Fox Promotes Kyle Carmean to Head of News and Content for Washington, D.C. Stations

Kyle Carmean has been promoted to vice president of news and content for WTTG Fox 5 DC and WDCA Fox 5 Plus.

Carmean will oversee all the editorial, business, and administration functions for the stations and their streaming offerings.

“Kyle has been instrumental in the stations’ success over the last decade. His innovative approach and creative vision will continue to lead our newsroom to future growth,” said Sue Diviney, senior vice president and general manager of the duopoly.

Carmean has been with the Fox Television Stations (FTS) for 20 years. He joined WTTG/WDCA in 2014 as assistant news director. Before that, Carmean spent 9 years as managing editor at WTXF Fox 29 Philadelphia. Prior to joining FTS, he was a nightside desk manager for WJZ-TV 13 in Baltimore, Maryland. Carmean began his career in broadcasting as Producer then Bureau Chief for WBOC-TV in Dover, Delaware.

“I’m ready for the opportunity to lead this skilled team of journalists and content creators as we continue our commitment to meeting the changing needs of our viewers in a multiplatform world,” said Carmean.

Recommended videos

<https://www.adweek.com/tvspy/fox-promotes-kyle-carmean-to-head-of-news-and-content-for-washington-dc-stations/>