

Gap, Kanye West Slammed for Displaying Clothing in Giant Garbage Bags Inside Stores

Gap has announced that it will officially begin pulling Yeezy Gap items from shelves, effective immediately, following Kanye West's antisemitic commentary this past week.

"Our former partner's recent remarks and behavior further underscore why. We are taking immediate steps to remove Yeezy Gap product from our stores and we have shut down YeezyGap.com," the company said in a statement. "Antisemitism, racism and hate in any form are inexcusable and not tolerated in accordance with our values. On behalf of our customers, employees and shareholders, we are partnering with organizations that combat hate and discrimination."
