Google Does Not Use Quality Raters for Machine Learning Algos

Whenever there is a new quality raters guidelines released by Google, there is always lots of speculation about what Google does with the data from those ratings. And does that include machine learning? Google confirmed that they use quality raters to evaluate potential changes to the search algos. They push out a change and then […]

The post Google Does Not Use Quality Raters for Machine Learning Algos appeared first on The SEM Post.

http://www.thesempost.com/google-not-use-quality-raters-machine-learning/