How an Engineer Leveraged Brand Experience to Head Up Crown Media

A former brand manager of Clorox might not seem the likely choice to head up Crown Media Family Networks. But president and CEO Wonya Lucas worked her way from becoming a process engineer to heading up some of cable television’s most recognizable networks, with a particular focus on increasing diversity.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/convergent-tv/how-an-engineer-leveraged-brand-experience-to-head-up-crown-media/