

How to Start a Blog and Make $100,000 a Month Before You're 30

In this video, Entrepreneur Network partner Jeff Rose sits down with Michelle Schroeder-Gardner of Making Sense of Cents, a financial blog. Schroeder-Gardner hustled to turn Making Sense of Cents into a financially stable business, and now she makes $100,000 from her blog content monthly. The best part? She's only 28 years old, and she travels around the country while she works.

She and Rose talk about the process of writing a good blog, the sort of posts that work well and how much time you need to put in before you can expect to see those long-term results.
