Jeff Bezos's 10,000-Year Clock Is Revealed

Plus, Fox News is creating its own streaming service and Rent The Runway launches a bridal service.

February 23, 2018 1 min read

Opinions expressed by Entrepreneur contributors are their own.

Jeff Bezos revealed a video of the 500-foot tall clock that's being built inside a West Texas mountain. The mechanical clock is powered by the Earth's thermal cycles and has been in the works for almost three decades! Bezos says the clock is a symbol for long-term thinking.

Fox News is creating a streaming service called Fox Nation. The paid video streaming service will launch later this year as an over-the-top opinion platform. Fox Nation will have live, daily streaming content as well as exclusive events available to subscribers.

Rent the Runway now has a service that will make brides everywhere take a sigh of relief. The designer rental clothing company has announced the launch of its full-service wedding concierge. The service ranges from personalized styling to at home fittings with access to thousands of gowns.

https://www.entrepreneur.com/video/309487