Most of 2020’s best holiday deals could end later this week

This story is part of a group of stories called verge deals

Only the best deals on Verge-approved gadgets get the Verge Deals stamp of approval, so if you’re looking for a deal on your next gadget or gift from major retailers like Amazon, Walmart, Best Buy, Target, and more, this is the place to be.

When the calendar flips over to 2021 this Friday, January 1st, some of the best deals that we’ve been featuring for the past few months could come to an end. Assuredly, not every single one will end, but judging from previous years, the start of a new year means the holiday season is over and most companies will likely want to raise their prices. Here are a few mainstay deals that might not be around for much longer.

If you sign up for YouTube TV by December 31st, you’ll get a free Google Chromecast with Google TV (pictured above), the latest streaming device that supports 4K HDR playback and includes a remote.

Next up, this great Walmart-exclusive deal combines a Switch Pro controller with a download code for Super Mario Odyssey for just $70. This deal is likely to sell out, but keep an eye on it, as it occasionally restocks.

]]>

Nintendo Switch Pro controller with Super Mario Odyssey game

Prices taken at time of publishing.

Nintendo now sells a version of the Switch Pro controller that includes a download code for Super Mario Odyssey. The price hasn’t changed ($70), but you get a $60 game for free with purchase. This may go out of stock soon.

https://www.theverge.com/good-deals/2020/12/30/22206112/chromecast-google-sony-bose-headphones-amazon-best-buy-target-walmart-deal-sale