Philadelphia Ad Sees Cream Cheese as a Sensory Explosion

It isn’t easy to convey how something tastes via an advertisement, but studies show that tapping into other senses like sight and sound can be helpful to advertisers looking to communicate the overlap between taste and other senses.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/brand-marketing/philadelphia-ad-sees-cream-cheese-as-a-sensory-explosion/