After quietly disappearing from the application last May, polls are back on Messenger From Facebook.

Users in group chats (more than two people) who wish to create polls can click on the plus sign, select Polls, add their questions and choices for answers and tap Create Poll to include it in the chat.

People in group chats who want to participate in a poll can tap anywhere on it to bring up the details screen, choose their answer and tap Submit.

The Polls feature was rolled out Thursday across Android, desktop, iOS and web.

Facebook said in a blog post, “Power users of the previous version of Polls will note that we’ve refreshed the look and feel with new colors and an updated button to vote. We’ve also added Polls to the Messenger Desktop app, available for both Mac and Windows users.”
