Shut the fridge door!

Family Hub fridges are getting a new hands-free feature. Samsung’s latest update to its Family Hub smart fridge line adds a feature I’ve always wanted — voice-activated door opening and closing.

Using the device’s built-in Bixby voice control, you will soon be able to say “Shut the fridge door,” or “Open the door,” and your machine will obey.

According to a press release from Samsung at CES 2026 this week, the voice commands will open the door fully, not just a smidge — over 90 degrees. You can also tap the door with the palm or the back of your hand to activate the movement.

This could be super helpful when cooking, say when your hands are dirty and you want to get the milk out. It’s also a …

Read the full story at The Verge.

https://www.theverge.com/tech/853758/shut-the-fridge-door