Smother me gently in this human-sized Pokémon pod

Pokéshopper is releasing a life-sized Metapod in April 2021 that can house a human body, hopefully still living. Is it a costume? A sleeping bag? Vore? Truly, who cares, for it calls to me from its soft and gaping maw.

The site's Twitter account helpfully shared a picture of its specifications in what I think also doubles as a sort of "how to insert body" diagram. Rather than explain it with words, let's just look at it together:

Mmm. Soothing.

Less comforting is the news that it's already sold out in roughly seven hours. To anyone with power reading this, please consider restocking. I wish to be on whatever vibe Metapod man is.

https://www.theverge.com/2020/11/9/21556433/pokemon-pod-metapod-costume-pokeshopper