We are a small nutrition business seeking a freelance design student to work on a variety of projects on an ad hoc basis.

Role Details

We have a variety of tasks that pop up from time to time and would love to work with a design student on those things. We've used design students from Shillington in the past and been very happy with the quality and creativity of work, communication and cost (we're a small company and don't have a huge budget but we love good design!).

Right now we need help creating some flyers and posters for 3 Health and Wellbeing events featuring guest speakers. In the past we've sought logo design and branding services, creation of lengthy e-books, photo editing, banners for Facebook and other flyers. These are the typical jobs we enlist the services of a designer for.

Skill/Attributes Required

Would suit a design student that is nearing the end of their studies and wants to get some proper experience, perhaps begin building their client list and portfolio, plus earn some money at the same time.
Aside from rock solid design skills, this person must be a good communicator, a stickler for detail and always meet agreed deadlines.
