Twitter: How to Stop Personalizing Your Experience Based on Your Inferred Identity

By default, Twitter will attempt to personalize your experience on the social network “based on your inferred identity.”

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/media/twitter-how-to-stop-personalizing-your-experience-based-on-your-inferred-identity/

TikTok Details Several Well-Being Updates

TikTok detailed several updates and resources related to the well-being of its users.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/media/tiktok-details-several-well-being-updates/

LinkedIn Adds Dark Mode

Dark mode has arrived on LinkedIn.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/media/linkedin-adds-dark-mode/

Twitter Lets Fans Send Artists at the VMAs Stan Mail

Why send fan mail for the MTV Video Music Awards Sunday, when you can go on Twitter and send Stan Mail?

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/social-marketing/twitter-lets-fans-send-artists-at-the-vmas-stan-mail/

Twitter: Where Bots Can Be Proud to Be Bots (If They’re Good)

Twitter is letting bots be bots, as long as they’re good bots.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/media/twitter-where-bots-can-be-proud-to-be-bots-if-theyre-good/

Everything You Need to Know About Ray-Ban Stories

Google Glass kickstarted the smart glasses movement, but it also spawned the term “glassholes” before the project was put on hold in 2015.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/media/everything-you-need-to-know-about-ray-ban-stories/

Twitter: How to Stop Followers From Seeing the Spaces You’re Listening To

By default, Twitter allows a user’s followers to see the Spaces they’re currently listening to. However, users have the ability to turn this feature off if they want to keep their listening activity private. Our guide will show you how this is done.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/media/twitter-how-to-stop-followers-from-seeing-the-spaces-youre-listening-to/

Twitter: How to Request Verification

Twitter now allows users to request verification for their accounts. When a user’s profile is verified, the blue verified checkmark will be added.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/media/twitter-how-to-request-verification/

All Twitter Users Can Now Offer Revue Newsletter Subscriptions via Their Profiles

The ability to subscribe to Revue newsletters directly via Twitter profiles was rolled out to all Twitter users worldwide this week, on Android, iOS and the web.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/media/all-twitter-users-can-now-offer-revue-newsletter-subscriptions-via-their-profiles/

TikTok Fashion Month Sets Several Initiatives to Bring the Runway to Users

Fashion Month is also TikTok Fashion Month, for the third time in 2021.

Recommended articles

https://www.adweek.com/social-marketing/tiktok-fashion-month-sets-several-initiatives-to-bring-the-runway-to-users/