The DO School is an innovation platform based in Berlin that seeks to help individuals and organisations develop products and services that benefit society. The Smart Connection Challenge, funds 20 young gifted creatives to come to Berlin to develop new ways of encouraging meaningful connections through music.

Role Details

Are you passionate about music and creating genuine connections between people?

Then join our 4-week Smart Connection Challenge and help create new ways of encouraging meaningful connection through music and lifestyle experiences.

What's The Smart Connection Challenge?
The Smart Connection Challenge brings 20 young people from around the world together to find new ways of using technology to improve the quality of connections among young people. Over 4 weeks, participants will co-create concrete products, services or campaigns that inspire and resonate with millennials.

How does it work?
The program is brought to you by Telekom Electronic Beats, an international music and lifestyle marketing program, in association with The DO School, a global platform dedicated to innovation, entrepreneurship, and social impact. Using the DO School Method, an award-winning innovation approach, you will be equipped to put your ideas into action, both quickly and effectively. Over the 4 weeks you will take a real-life innovation from the idea phase into the implementation phase. Selected products will be piloted in Europe, where Telekom Electronic Beats already has an expansive market presence.

Where?
The DO School campus in Berlin, Germany, one of the global music capitals.

When
Program start: June 18, 2018.
Applicants requiring a visa to submit applications by April 1, 2018.
All other applicants to submit applications by April 15, 2018.

Tuition
Selected participants will receive a full scholarship covering tuition as well as travel cost to and from Berlin, local accommodation and public transport for the program duration.
