The full trailer for Jessica Jones' second season is here

Netflix is back with a full trailer for the second season of Jessica Jones, the Marvel series about an angry street superhero dealing with a traumatic past. The first teaser was released in December, but the new trailer gives more of an impression of what to expect when the show returns on March 8th.

From the look of things, Jessica (Krysten Ritter) will focus on exploring the death of her parents and the mysterious experiments that led to her gaining her powers. She also seems to be dealing with the traumatic fallout of the events of the first season of the show, and her fight with her nemesis, the Purple Man. The aftermath of The Defenders, the series that merged Marvel's Netflix shows Daredevil, Iron Fist, Luke Cage, and Jessica Jones, seems to factor in as well.

Given that this is Jessica Jones, except a healthy dose of private-eye procedural investigation, fights in dimly lit hallways, and drinking, all heavily laced with Ritter's biting brand of sarcasm.

Further seasons of Luke Cage, Iron Fist, and Daredevil are also expected in 2018, but no release dates have been set.

https://www.theverge.com/2018/2/7/16985136/netflix-jessica-jones-season-2-trailer-marvel-krysten-ritter