The New York Sun Returns With an Eye on Digital Subscriptions

General news publisher The New York Sun announced today that it is making a comeback after closing its print run in 2008. The digital-only title expects subscriptions will make up 80% of its revenue. As such, it’s offering audiences three different subscription tiers.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/media/the-new-york-sun-returns-with-an-eye-on-digital-subscriptions/