The Pixel 10 Pro Fold might make blue the new black

Google might replace the upcoming Pixel Pro Fold’s white and black models with two new color options. Leaked renders shared by Android Headlines show the Pixel 10 Pro Fold in a light green “Jade” and a silvery blue “Moonstone” — with no black or white option at all.

Since the launch of Google’s first foldable in 2023, the company has sold the device and its Pixel 9 Pro Fold successor in either Obsidian (black) or Porcelain (white). The Pixel 10 Pro Fold could shake up these neutral tones for something a little more colorful, and I have to say that I’m liking the look of the pistachio green.

Recent rumors suggest that the Pixel 10 Pro Fold will mainly offer just a spec bump, featuring a slightly larger 6.4-inch cover display, a bigger battery, and a new 1TB storage option. Android Headlines also previously reported that the Pixel 10 Pro Fold could be completely dustproof, which would be a first for foldable phones.

https://www.theverge.com/news/712438/google-pixel-10-pro-fold-colors-rumor