The Social Media NUDGE Act Takes a Different Tack With Content Moderation

On Wednesday, a new bipartisan bill was introduced in Congress that would let the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) regulate how social media companies, like Meta, address the amplification of harmful content and social media addiction. And it takes a different approach to existing efforts that aim to stop the spread of harmful content.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/programmatic/the-social-media-nudge-act-takes-a-different-tack-with-content-moderation/