The Way We Eat

April 2021–2022
Sydney

If you’re looking for something to nourish not only your artistic sensibilities but also by context, your stomach, look no further than Art Gallery of NSW’s – ‘The Way We Eat’ exhibition.

This curation of fine and rustic asian culinary wares, plays with a combination of ancient treasures and contemporary art to explore the intersection of art and food. Historic rituals, the evolution of cultural exchange and the timeless significance that food has held throughout the ages.

Feast your eyes on this collection, free to view until early 2022.
