This Creative Pops the Hype Bubble to Make Brands Relatable

Starting an agency right before the onset of a pandemic triggered some soul-searching for Ravi Amaratunga Hitchcock. “It’s existential every day,” he said. “What is an agency and what does it do? What is a client? Everything seems to be in this shifting period.”

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/brand-marketing/this-creative-pops-the-hype-bubble-to-make-brands-relatable/