‘This is About Thought Leadership:’ How Washington Post Live Found Staying Power

Like a lot of companies, a year ago Washington Post Live pivoted from in-person events to virtual interviews in response to the pandemic. But what began as a workaround solution has evolved into a successful standalone product, and is delivering better results for some advertiser clients than in-person events.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/media/this-is-about-thought-leadership-how-washington-post-live-found-staying-power/