

Travis Kelce's Sideline Outburst Taught Us 3 Important Lessons About Leadership Under Pressure

Opinions expressed by Entrepreneur contributors are their own.

Andy Reid is undoubtedly one of the best coaches the NFL has ever had. Although I am certainly not a football historian, even a cursory view of his accomplishments reveals a man at the top of his profession. He has three Superbowl rings, is the only coach in history to win 100 games for two different franchises, has an almost certain future date with the Hall of Fame – the list goes on.

By all accounts, he is a great coach. And that's why when one of his players – an employee, really – lost his temper, yelled, and shoved him on live TV during the 2024 Super Bowl, Coach Reid hardly reacted.

Related: Record-Breaking Super Bowl LVIII Was the Most Streamed Single Broadcast Since the 1969 Moon Landing

<https://www.entrepreneur.com/leadership/travis-kelces-outburst-taught-us-3-important-lessons-about/469737>