Twitter Begins Rolling Out New Conversation Layout on iOS, Web

|
3 hours ago

Users will start seeing a new layout for replies
Another conversation-enhancing feature Twitter had been testing via its twttr application was released to the masses this week.

Twitter users on iOS and the web will start seeing a new layout for replies to tweets, which includes lines and indentations, making it more obvious who replies were directed to, as well as fitting more of the conversation into the view.

> Your conversations are the ???? of Twitter, so we're testing ways to make them easier to read and follow.
>
> Some of you on iOS and web will see a new layout for replies with lines and indentations that make it clearer who is > talking to whom and to fit more of the convo in one view. pic.twitter.com/sB2y09fG9t

>
> — Twitter Support (@TwitterSupport) May 5, 2020

The social network also said it is experimenting with adding icons for like, reply and retweet behind a tap for replies, saying this is being trialed with a small group on iOS and the web.

> We’re also experimenting with placing like, Retweet, and reply icons behind a tap for replies. We’re trying this with a small group on iOS and web to see how it affects following and engaging with a convo.
>
> We’ll keep you updated as the conversation experience evolves!
>
> — Twitter Support (@TwitterSupport) May 5, 2020

https://www.adweek.com/digital/twitter-begins-rolling-out-new-conversation-layout-on-ios-web/