

Vision Pro launch: all the news about Apple's pricey new headset

Although it's an unofficial third-party app, Juno supports most of the features you'd expect out of a native YouTube app. You can watch videos (obviously), scrub and skip through them using pinch gestures, and it'll even respect the videos' aspect ratios. Browsing YouTube's catalog is also supported (though you can't see video comments), and Juno is also set up to show YouTube ads to avoid making Google "grumpy," Selig writes.

<https://www.theverge.com/24059284/apple-vision-pro-launch-day-news>