

We rounded up 40 last-minute gifts you can still grab in time for the holidays

Believe it or not, we're now just a few days away from Christmas. Don't panic if you've yet to start your holiday shopping, though! While it might be too late to order some of the gifts on your holiday wish list, plenty of other great presents will arrive in time.. if you know where to look.

After doing some digging at various retailers, we've found a bunch of gadgets and goods you'll still be able to tuck under the tree if you order them soon enough. They encompass a wide range of categories, too, from noise-canceling earbuds and fitness trackers to smart lights, e-readers, and smart speakers. Best of all, a bunch of them are currently on sale, so you can save some money while you're at it.

However, keep in mind that Amazon purchases are not likely to arrive on time unless you've signed up for a Prime membership. Don't worry, though, because there are plenty of other retailers – including Best Buy, Target, and Walmart – that will ship your gift in time without requiring you to sign up for a premium subscription.

Update, December 20th: Adjusted copy to reflect current pricing and availability.

<https://www.theverge.com/24323542/best-last-minute-gifts-ideas-unique>