Why Building Communities Should Start With Fortifying Brand Love Through Relationships

With a love of math and science at an early age, followed by a fascination with storytelling, Elizabeth Del Valle gravitated towards marketing at a young age and has since spent every day pursuing opportunities where she can continue to learn and make an impact in the space.

Don’t miss The Business of Marketing podcast featuring leading c-suite executives sharing insights on the importance of leveraging the intersectionality of marketing, finance, technology, HR and the boardroom to drive business growth. Tune in.

Recommended articles
https://www.adweek.com/inside-the-brand/building-communities-through-relationships/