Search engine optimization (SEO) is the number one form of advertising in terms of return on investment so that means if you have a website or a business, search means more to you than anything else out there if you're looking for more leads, sales, customers, and friends. As a matter of fact, if you aren't purposely and actively pursuing SEO for your business, you're leaving more than money off the table, you're leaving your entire business profile, reviews and ultimately destroying your reputation.

If you're still asking, "What is search engine optimization"? – it's the digital version of yellow or white pages. If someone is looking for something they typically use Google or another search engine and type what's on their mind. From there, whatever websites and keywords show up on the first results will get clicked on.

Basically, if you have a website that's selling t-shirts or sportswear you want to be able to have your website show up on Google when someone types up "red shirt" or "giants hat" (if you live in San Francisco). The neat thing about search engine marketing is that anyone can get it done, and save $1000s you would spend elsewhere otherwise. You can have a website up and running and use SESlingshots.GaryVaynerchukMedia.com to get your search terms ranked on Google as the first result in as little as 72 hours. It’s called backlink building and if done right, you can get links from other trusted pages that tell Google – your website is positively referred to and belongs at the top of search results.

It’s a really smart and effective strategy and once again, it has the highest return on investment in comparison to any other form of marketing or advertising to have ever have existed on the planet. Visit SESlingshots.GaryVaynerchukMedia.com and use the search tool to find out what your website needs to get to the top result on Google.
