

With Abercrombie & Fitch Sitting Pretty, Its Sister Brands Get a Makeover

While flagship banner Abercrombie & Fitch garnered most of the attention—going from one of the most disliked brands in America to a successful turnaround—its parent company has been hard at work reviving the rest of its portfolio.

Don't miss The Business of Marketing podcast featuring leading c-suite executives sharing insights on the importance of leveraging the intersectionality of marketing, finance, technology, HR and the boardroom to drive business growth. Tune in.

Recommended articles

<https://www.adweek.com/commerce/abercrombie-fitch-gilly-hicks-social-tourist/>